

Financial Statement for F-1 Students

Student Name: _____

Students applying for F-1 status must demonstrate sufficient funds available to cover all educational and living expenses for the duration of their studies. These expenses include but are not limited to: on-campus housing, meal plans, mandatory medical insurance, laptop rental, student fees, textbook purchase and/or rental, and personal spending money. A list of estimated expenses is available on a separate sheet.

Proof of available funding for the first year of study must accompany this statement and may include an official bank statement in the student's or sponsor's name, an official statement of grant or scholarship, or other similar financial documents. All financial documents must be current at the time of application to be considered valid. If there is more than one sponsor, each sponsor must complete this form.

The submitted bank statement may require additional verification from the issuing bank. To speed up the process, the bank may directly send the bank statement to global@rose-hulman.edu and mention the student's name in the email. Other ways to help us verify funds are: provide the email address of the bank where we can confirm the authenticity of documents, or your bank documents may have QR Codes or a verification link on the bank's website. Providing untruthful or fabricated bank statements constitutes fraud and may lead to your application being discontinued.
